Jen Reyneri, founder of Word Traveling, an emerging non-profit social-enterprise, is always "on the move"- with her work, her husband, her boys, and her faith. "One of those creative soul mamas who just inspire the holy heck out of you, Jen brings her talented eye behind the camera together with her unique and inspiring messages. She has that rare ability to breathe new life into a moment, and her audience." Her postcards are her platform. Jen exists to boldly excite, ignite and inspire others in their Kingdom journeys. Busy home-schooling mom of two daring boys, she and her husband Luis lead a local stewardship ministry and hit the road whenever possible. Jen inspires others to GO! live their calling, and is passionate about training up leaders, in moms and the next generation. She and her knight-in-shining-armor husband Luis run a small beach bed & breakfast, homeschool their two sons on the philosophy that "life is learning" and by training in what really matters- building: bridges, a family grounded in the Lord, future leaders, relationships, and Legos. Jen is a visionary, strategist, coach, author, artist and poet, and the creator of the Sonshine Social Media Summit. She recently fulfilled a life-long dream with the launch of her Words with Wings poetry curriculum.

WHAT PEOPLE ARE SAYING.....

"Jen Reyneri is a visionary with a desire to encourage the hearts of homeschool moms. She shares with a voice of honesty and passion about traveling, homeschooling, and just being a mom. I am grateful to call her my friend and colleague."

~Ashley Wiggers, Executive Editor, Homeschooling Today Magazine

Jen Reyneri brings excitement and encouragement everywhere she goes. She is an authentic speaker who shares her heart with her audience. I have worked with Jen and traveled with her. What I most enjoy about working with Jen is her spirit to serve with excellence. Work with Jen once and you become lifetime friends.
